EDITOR'S NOTE

I am pleased to present the 2019 edition of the Indo-Canada Chamber of Commerce (ICCC) Annual Magazine. It was an eventful year for the ICCC since the incumbent President and Board of Directors took office in September 2018. After some deliberation, we decided on this year's theme of Rising India: Time to Act. This theme is both a hopeful reflection on growing trade relationships between India and Canada and a call to action.

Over the last four decades, the ICCC has been a forum for the exchange of ideas, where the bilateral commercial ties between two great nations are pioneered. Creating new and innovative business opportunities for our members is more important than ever in our digital world. The time, as our theme suggests, is now: India and Canada must actively collaborate to achieve key bilateral goals on joint production, smart technology, advanced manufacturing, education, developing supply chains, and food security for over a billion people. As the market for goods, services, and skills from complementary commerce and trade continues to grow in both India and Canada, the time to strengthen our bilateral ties is now.

Thus the 2019 Annual Magazine of the Chamber reflects the achievements of the year and what the ICCC hopes to accomplish in the years to come. The Board has continued to increase the value and accountability that our members have come to expect from the ICCC, and to reach higher than ever to achieve its desired goals.

Curating our Annual Magazine and staging our Annual Awards and Gala Night requires numerous hours and the efforts of a dedicated team. It would be impossible for me to thank every individual involved in this venture, but as the editor of the 2019 edition of Annual Magazine, I would like to thank our traditional and new sponsors for their generous help and support.

We hope you enjoy our Annual Magazine 2019.

MANDATE & VISION

The Indo-Canada Chamber of Commerce (ICCC) was founded in 1977. The ICCC is a membership based, volunteer driven, not-for-profit, non-partisan and privately funded business organization representing its members from the Indo-Canadian business and professional communities across Canada.

The Mandate

To promote trade and commerce between Canada and India with support provided to, and received from, various levels of governments and to establish links with global business organizations.

To provide business networking opportunities for our members, sponsors and partners to enable the sharing of ideas, information and experiences in order to promote mutual business success; to create learning opportunities for our members through seminars, workshops and conferences.

To recognize the achievements and contributions of the Indo-Canadian community as a part of the business and social fabric of Canada.

The Vision

The Chamber works hard on behalf of it's membership, offering insightful and meaningful policy contributions, and leading initiatives that positively influence the Indo-Canadian economic and social landscape. Our aim is to serve as the premier voice of the Indo-Canadian business and professional community. We are committed to the enhancement of economic prosperity and quality of life of our members.

The Chamber is the country's premier Canada-India bilateral trade and investment facilitator, catalyst and advocate. Our mission includes the promotion and stimulation of bilateral trade and commerce between Canada and India.

We recognize the importance of India as a premier trading partner for business in Canada. The Chamber is a pivotal resource in enhancing Canada-India trade.

BECOME A MEMBER

At the Chamber, we believe strongly in the power of association. To facilitate this, we are constantly hosting networking opportunities where business people can meet other business people; professionals can meet professionals and exchange ideas, experiences, and get support. Many entrepreneurs will find the missing link in the room during our event. The room will be full of people who may have the key for your growth, and you may hold the missing puzzle for someone else's growth.

We share with you experiences of two of our members

Kala Narayanan

ICCC is a platform where I could build connections and it helped me to stay motivated and gain insights in the Corporate world. It provides the most cost-effective marketing methods available to small business. I was able to develop long-term business relationships with quality business professionals who are ready and willing to help me accomplish my business goals.

For the new Immigrants in Canada, it is good to become a member of ICCC and be there for all the small networking events, to gain that confidence and support from the existing members. In every sector one can find connection in the Chamber, such as Law, Education, Commerce, Technology, and Finance etc. Meeting ICCC members is uplifting and keeps one connected. I personally have benefited from mentoring from within the Chamber. These mentors are leaders and are keen to give back to the community by coaching people to achieve one's full potential and work.

Sanjay Kulkarni

I have enjoyed working at ICCC for the last few years. I had some time on my hands because of the transition from full time job to my own practice. Most of the work at ICCC is performed by a group of voluntary workers who devote their time to the organization without expectation of anything in return.

The volunteers are often Canadian citizens of Indian origin. Working at ICCC offers a unique opportunity to offer selfless service to both countries. The culture is very friendly. I had an opportunity to meet many people with different interests from both countries.

Their evening sessions are very informative. If you like to network with people and have some time to devote then working as a volunteer at ICCC is a good opportunity.

Become a member and stay in touch

Indo-Canada Chamber of Commerce runs on volunteers. Right from the president of the Chamber to the young committee member who helps at the reception desk of our event, the Chamber depends entirely on the services of volunteers.

Volunteering offers incredible opportunities, priceless professional development which can enhance business and careers. Volunteering provides a sense of fulfilment and a perfect platform for anyone wanting to expose their leadership potential. By working with others, sharing experiences and identifying best practices, one starts to identify key qualities and considers how to develop those qualities in themselves.

Serving on a committee is a great way to learn more about the organisation and volunteering is something that anyone can do. Dedicating some time and energy leads to both social and professional gains. These rewards include recognition of skills and expertise which can ultimately result in positions of responsibility.

We share with you experiences of two of our volunteers

Akshay Makhija

It was a great opportunity and a honour to work as volunteer for ICCC. I got introduced to ICCC by chance.

My father's friend who works in PHD Chamber of Commerce came with his delegation to ICCC and from there on, I got to know that ICCC is so huge and beneficial.

ICCC helped me in developing my networking skills. Through ICCC, I got the confidence of speaking to a large audience and overcome my shy nature.

It gave me courage to dream big and everything is possible and achievable in this world. ICCC helped me both in my professional as well as personal development.

After migrating as a student to Canada in 2017, Indo-Canadian Chamber of Commerce (ICCC) was the first organization I came across. Soon after, I realized it could be a platform to provide opportunities to develop & grow my social network while working as volunteer with ICCC.

Simranjit Singh

It has been an overwhelming experience volunteering for ICCC as I got the opportunity to attend various events, just like the recently held SIAL, Canada.

I got to make many new links, with people from different sectors of the industry as well as among other students. An environment of mutual respect along with immense support from the ICCC leaders creates a desire to learn more about the organization and further participate in their events.

ICCC thrived on volunteerism

A year of Transformation

An institution's relevance is measured on two basic parameters – how effective it is in fulfilling its mandate and how effectively does it meet the aspirations of its stakeholders, members, and constituents.

As an institution grows in size and in age, it faces the twin challenge of continually achieving its objectives and remaining relevant to its constituents. To achieve its aims, it must reinvent itself. To remain relevant, it must devise better modes to reach out to new and traditional constituents.

This process is difficult especially for an organization like the Indo-Canada Chamber of Commerce (ICCC) because its core mandate must serve a much larger canvas today as compared to over four decades ago when it began operations. The two main objectives of the ICCC are to foster bilateral trade relations between Canada and India, and to create opportunities for Indo-Canadians in the Canadian mainstream.

When the ICCC started operations in 1977, the Canada – India trade was negligible and dwindling. Four decades later, the trade numbers, while still not as robust as we would want them to be, are healthy $8billion plus and on an upward trajectory. Canada and India enjoy a special relationship that is based on common democratic values and both the governments are keen to foster a more meaningful relationship to untap the full potential of both the countries. Pertinently, the number of resident Indo-Canadians in the late 1970s was in mere thousands, today, Indo-Canadians are on the verge of becoming the largest immigrant ethnicity in Canada.

So, how does the ICCC create avenues for more comprehensive economic and trade relations? And what should it do so that it continues to represent the aspirations of the Indo-Canadian community?

When I took charge of the ICCC as its President, I was aware of these challenges and as clear about the measure I would undertake to resolve them. My mantra was to have a three-pronged approach:

- Connect – to transform the ICCC into a networking hub for individuals and businesses
- Educate – to inculcate the value of ceaseless learning for professional and personal growth of ICCC's constituents
- Empower – to create awareness among

Indo-Canadians that they should be the change they wish to see in their society

To achieve these aims, I created a Presidential Advisory Group comprising eminent experts in diverse fields such as Government Affairs, Strategic Planning, Fundraising, Business Development, Information Technology, Affinity Programs, and of course, Membership and Special Programs.

The biggest impact of this decision was to qualitatively improve the overall functioning of the institution. We are achieving our mandate in a more comprehensive manner and reaching out to our constituents – new and traditional – more effectively.

Additionally, not only did the number of programs and events witness a tremendous jump in numbers, the velocity of their impact was palpable and tangible.

With the challenge of meeting ICCC's core mandate effectively addressed, it was time to meet the challenge of retaining relevance. To achieve this, it was necessary to take a calculated risk and branch out into uncharted territory that would give assured returns for many years. Yes, I am referring to the ICCC's bold initiative to launch its India operations. On 18 February 2019, just a month short of its 42nd birthday, the ICCC launched its India office in New Delhi.

Another significant measure was to streamline the organisation's assets and utilize them optimally. I am delighted to inform our stakeholders that the measures initiated to augment the ICCC's assets and resources have begun to yield results and will secure its future. For the first time in its history, the organisation is a resource-rich entity.

The inherently democratic nature of the ICCC's structure has given us the rich variety of leadership over the last four decades. We are in the process of securing this unique democratic feature so that in future the constitutional provisions are adhered to both in the letter and in spirit, and continue give our institution a leadership that is committed to the stakeholders' interests rather than its own.

There is a lot that is yet to be done and what I have initiated are mere baby steps. With your cooperation, we will turn these initiatives into a catalyst of change, a force of transformation, and a ceaseless, continuous improvement program that will help the ICCC scale unprecedented heights.

Before I conclude, let me express my sincere gratitude to my colleagues on the board, our sponsors, our stakeholders and our members for making my journey as the President of the ICCC memorable to me personally as well as for the institution that all of us have come to love as much as our home.

Message

The Annual Awards and Gala by the Indo-Canadian Chamber of Commerce (ICCC) is an occasion the entire Indian diaspora looks forward to.

This year's event on 9 June is an occasion to honour the contributions made by prominent Indo-Canadians to Canadian life, economy and society.

The ICCC Gala is also an occasion to celebrate the close ties between India and Canada based on shared values, common interests and extensive people-to-people contacts. The general elections in India were a reaffirmation of India's status as the world's largest democracy. The Indian diaspora has contributed to the global image of India as a progressive country marching forward. The ICCC has also done commendable work in bringing India and Canada closer together and showcasing the business opportunities in both countries.

I congratulate all winners of this year's awards and wish Indo-Canada Chamber of Commerce all success for their future endeavours.

Congratulations to the Indo-Canadian Chamber of Commerce on 42 years of promoting bilateral business, trade, and creating strong connections between India and Canada. Indo-Canadians are an integral part of the Canadian society and their contributions strengthen us as a country. As Canada's Prime Minister, the Right Honourable Justin Trudeau, has said: "Canada and India unite in our shared traditions of democracy and diversity. Together, our nations stand as a testament to the fact that countries can prosper not in spite of their diversity, but precisely because of it."

More than one million Canadians – including my family – trace their roots back to India. I am proud to be one of four Canadian Cabinet ministers of Indian heritage, and one of many MPs of Indian heritage in this Parliament. India is the world's fastest growing economy and Canada's relationship with India offers tremendous opportunities for increased collaboration for businesses and people through the hard work of organizations such as the Indo-Canadian Chamber of Commerce. I look forward to collaborating with the new Chamber president, Pramod Goyal, to promote economic growth between our two countries. Please extend my congratulations and best wishes to all delegates on the business mission to India in February 2019.

As the more than 1,500 members of the Indo-Canada Chamber of Commerce can attest, the relationship between Canada and India is a profitable one. Canada's commercial priorities in India are targeted at India's policy objectives and sectors where Canada has a comparative advantage including energy, security, clean and renewable technology, and transportation infrastructure.

During his visit to India in February 2018, Prime Minister Justin Trudeau announced 66 new commercial contracts and agreements – worth more than $1 billion – between Canadian and Indian companies. Your efforts were also acknowledged and appreciated in these endeavours.

These commitments will help create more than 5,800 good, well-paying middle-class jobs for Canadians. I would also like to highlight the powerful links being formed between the world-class institutions, accelerators, and incubators in both countries. These partnerships will help create the technologies and transformative ideas of tomorrow, and lead to increased quality of life in Canada, India, and around the world.

As 2019 progresses, I'm confident that the strong personal and commercial ties between our countries will continue to grow. I look forward to seeing the successes and accomplishments of the Indo-Canadian Chamber of Commerce this year and beyond.

Sincerely,

A Message from the Premier of Saskatchewan

On behalf of the Government of Saskatchewan, I am pleased to extend greetings to everyone attending the Indo-Canada Chamber of Commerce (ICCC) Annual Awards and Gala Night.

This special annual event celebrates the visionaries within the Indo-Canadian community and honours their many successes. Their contributions help build stronger communities for all Canadians. This year's theme, "Rise of India: Time to Act" provides the inspiration for achievement to the more than one thousand guests in attendance. We look forward to learning valuable insights and exploring new opportunities for partnership.

The work done by the ICCC membership in promoting and facilitating communication and business links, strengthens the relationship between India and Canada. As Canada's leading exporter to India, Saskatchewan and India enjoy a strong and mutually beneficial relationship. Our province supplies over one-quarter of our country's exports to India, and benefits from immigrants and post-secondary students from India, who contribute their talents and skills to our economic and cultural mosaic. Saskatchewan recognizes the importance of India as a premier trading partner.

Thank you to the ICCC together with its partners and sponsors for organizing tonight's event and I wish you all an enjoyable evening.

I take this opportunity to extend my warm wishes to the Indo-Canada Chamber of Commerce (ICCC) on the occasion of its Annual Awards and Gala Night on 9 June 2019 with the theme of "Rising India: Time to Act".

ICCC has been the oldest bilateral chamber serving the two friendly countries and has promoted the economic interests of peoples on both sides to further enhance bilateral trade, investments as well as people-to-people contact. This is the fourth annual Gala of ICCC that I will be witnessing before completing my tenure and departing from Toronto. I have no hesitation in adding that the annual Gala has become a better and bigger event with each passing year.

India, as everyone knows, has been on an upward trajectory, particularly in the last few years. Today, we are speedily climbing up on various parameters including ease of doing business, FDI ranking, low inflation and fastest growing large economy. The entire world is competing to do business with India. I am glad to note that Canada is not far behind. With this in view, the theme selected by ICCC is extremely apt and timely.

On this occasion, I extend my warmest greetings and best wishes to the entire team of ICCC and their families. I also pray for continued progress, happiness and well-being for all.

CHIEF GUEST

ANDREW SCHEER
LEADER OF THE OFFICIAL OPPOSITION,
LEADER OF THE CONSERVATIVE PARTY

Andrew Scheer has been the Leader of the Conservative Party of Canada since May 27, 2017. He is in politics to put hardworking families first. A husband and father of five children, Andrew knows both the joys and the challenges of raising a young family in Canada today.

Andrew grew up in Ontario but chose to raise a family and build a career in Saskatchewan. He and his wife Jill live in Regina with their children, Thomas, Grace, Madeline, Henry, and Mary. Before entering public life, Andrew worked in the private sector as an insurance broker. He is fluently bilingual.

In 2004, Andrew was elected Conservative Member of Parliament for Regina—Qu'Appelle, defeating the longest-serving MP at the time. One of Canada's youngest MPs when he was first elected, his hard work and strong Conservative principles earned him the continued confidence of his constituents, winning re-election in 2006, 2008, 2011 and 2015. After the 2011 election, Andrew was elected Speaker of the House of Commons – the youngest person ever to take up that position. # INDIA, CANADA, AND THE GLOBAL COMPACT ON MIGRATION

In December 2018, Canada joined more than 160 United Nations member states at Marrakesh in adopting a new negotiated agreement on international migration – the non-binding United Nations Global Compact for Safe, Orderly and Regular Migration which sets out 23 objectives for improving international cooperation on all forms of migration, from refugees to skilled workers. Canada (along with Australia) is among the world's most generous nations for immigrants and has one of the highest per capita admission rates. (A 2014 sociological study concluded that "Australia and Canada are the most receptive to immigration among western nations").

Dr A. Didar Singh

There are in fact two different types of migration: what could be referred to as "discretionary" and "non-discretionary" migration. Non-discretionary refers to the fact that there are certain forms of even legal migration over which governments do not have much discretionary authority. Amongst the reasons is that governments have signed international treaties committing them to do certain things. One example is the treaty of Rome in the European Union, which gives EU workers the right of free movement within the EU. Another is the Geneva Convention for handling requests for asylum. A third example is the US H1B Visa which comes from the commitment under GATS that the US gave at WTO. Discretionary of course is when countries decide who they will allow in. The Global Compact was expected to find guidelines for 'managing' migration.

The migration issue has been on and off the global table for years and it looked like finally there was some 'movement' on it. The reality is that the issue of mobility is here to stay. Globalisation demands it. So do corporates. It brings the best of human resource from around the world to ensure sustainability and competitiveness for the economy. And yet migration continues to be seen through the filter of border control and internal security. This may suit political positions of domestic protectionism but continues to be a short-term response to the larger demands of the 21st century knowledge economy. Many countries don't get it – mainly because they don't want to. Many do, because they have to. That is the reality of migration.

Interestingly, in December 2017 at Puerto Vallarta, Mexico was concluded a three day global stocktaking conference on the 'global compact' and after due negotiations under the umbrella of the United Nations, the draft agreement was brought before the Intergovernmental Conference to Adopt the Global Compact on Migration, held in December 2018 at Marrakesh, Morocco. The compact was approved by the 164 nations that attended (including Canada and India). Several backed out – besides the US, so did Hungary, Austria, Poland, the Czech Republic, Croatia

Since 1947 in Canada, domestic immigration law and policy went through major changes, most notably with the Immigration Act, 1976, and the current Immigration and Refugee Protection Act from 2002, which have made the policy most forward looking. In November 2017, the Canadian Immigration Minister announced that Canada would admit nearly 1 million permanent residents to Canada over the following three years, rising from 0.7% to 1% of its population by 2020. This increase was motivated by the economic needs of the country facing an aging demographic, with the number of senior citizens expected to double by 2036 alongside a decline in the proportion of working-age adults. This recognition of the reality of an ageing population is what prompted many countries to re-examine their migration policies.

Back in 2016, 193 members of the UN general assembly unanimously adopted a non-binding political declaration, the New York declaration for refugees and migrants, pledging to uphold the rights of refugees and migrants, help them resettle and ensure they had access to education and jobs. This 'New York Declaration on Large Movements of Refugees and Migrants' saw the launching of a two-year process to develop a Global Compact on Safe, Orderly, and Regular Migration, or as it is better known, the Global Compact on Migration.

and Bulgaria, Slovenia, Australia, Switzerland and Israel.

The question on everybody's lips (especially the Media) was whether this global compact was in fact 'global'? Now that several countries have backed out, does it have global consensus? Let us remember that in any case this is a non-binding agreement. It's more of a signal of a 21st century reality. Migration is and will continue to happen. So, these 10 or so countries backing off doesn't really matter – on the migration stage. They will ultimately be compelled to accept human resource mobility if they too want to remain competitive. Canada by accepting this compact has shown its ahead of the curve.

Indian emigration to Canada started in the late 19th century and today is the cornerstone of a strong India-Canada partnership built upon shared traditions of democracy, pluralism and strong interpersonal connections. It is believed that, people who first come into a community are likely to have fewer associational ties and fewer political contacts, and fewer emotional and material stakes in the group tensions that express themselves in politics. This changes over time as emigrants get more and more integrated into the local society and realise the importance of political positions in a democratic society. Such realisation and progress of Indian immigrants resulted in a situation where today there are several Indo-Canadian MPs (19 Indo-Canadian MPs were elected in 2015, and four of these become a part of the Cabinet of Canada under Prime Minister Justin Trudeau.)

Besides politics, the growing importance of Indian origin Canadian businessmen also finds expression in the establishment and involvement in business bodies including the India Canada Chamber of Commerce (ICCC) and Canada India Foundation (CIF) along with other chambers and associations. The relationship including the migration benefits will only blossom.

CANADA-INDIA: NEXT 20 YEARS ( 2020 TO 2040 )

There are many articles written and debates conducted on macro aspects and strategy of growing trade & investment between Canada and India. Through this article, I am trying to present the practically do-able brastacks on how to walk the talk....

Canada became a nation in 1867

(152 years)

Indian became an independent nation in 1947

(72 years)

Canada's exports to India in 2017-18 was US$ 4.7 billion

India's exports to Canada in 2017-18 was US$ 2.5 billion

Total trade between the two nations was US$ 7.2 billion

Canada's total trade with USA was US$ 508 billion
(70 times that of India)

Canada's total trade with China was US$ 63 billion
(9 times that of India)

Dr Jagat Shah

2. Warehouse in India and Canada

Open two state led and private sector managed warehouses in Canada and India. The Canadian warehouse in India needs to be funded only in the beginning by the Government of Canada and then run by private sector on self sustaining approach and on rental basis, charged to Canadian companies. This warehouse can stock Canadian products for next day sales, faster deliveries, solving quality related challenges as importing companies in India can see the goods and buy, and faster payment cycle rotations. Shipments can also be made by Canadian company from this Indian warehouse to South East Asia, neighboring countries of India, Middle east, Australia / New Zealand etc. Warehousing costs in India are much lower than in Canada where in any case much of these stocks, like the foodgrains are being stocked currently.

Ten steps to increase trade between India & Canada:

1. Start ups & innovative companies are the key to the future

Today's start ups are going to be tomorrow's trade & investment partners. Establish two innovation centres between Canadian and Indian start up companies & innovation ecosystem in India and in Canada. India has become the second largest start up nation of world. Canada has a robust Start up & innovation policy. Canada should open an incubation centre & an accelerator in India and India should open one in Canada. Both governments spend millions of dollars on such activities but now they need to take it to the next level of crossing the oceans. Such centres have to be funded only in the beginning by government but run by private sector or non profit organisations on self sustaining approach. The centre should be fully autonomous in its functioning.

Same way India to build a warehouse in Canada for use on rental basis by Indian companies. The Indian warehouse in Canada can be used for shipments to USA and Latin America.

3. Formalise buying agency network

Buying agencies & trade consultants have been in existence since 1000 years and will remain a critical link for small and medium enterprises in both countries. European Union took a good initiative of organizing these stakeholders of trade into a systematic framework: <http://www.eu-distributors.com>

Similarly USA has set a good example with Manufacturers Agents National Association: www.manaonline.org

have to be first funded by the government of Canada and India and then to be run by private sector. This will boost Canadian trade as well as investment with India and the other way.

4. Organise one Federal investment Expo and summit every year.

A good example to follow would be Select USA, held every year in Washington DC in June by US Commercial Service, Department of Commerce, USA. All states of USA are present there with a info booth & knowledge sharing sessions and 2000+ investors from 70 countries attend. This initiative has to be led by Government of Canada, in Private Public Partnership - PPP approach with private sector. <https://www.selectusa.gov/selectusa-summit>

5. Organise Vibrant Canada Global Expo & Summit 2020 in India and Vibrant India Global Expo & Summit in Canada

Vibrant Gujarat, since 2003, a vision of Narendra Modi, has been an extremely popular GLOBAL brand name and model for making Gujarat one of the most prosperous states of India. The template is a proven and time tested model. I strongly suggest that Government of Canada, together with ICCC should organize Vibrant Canada 2020 in India and Government of India should organize Vibrant India 2021 in Canada. Vibrant Canada can be organized in one state of India every year. Same way for Vibrant India. The expo & summit in itself will be self sustaining. Only the start up fund has to be given by Government of Canada and India.

See examples:

www.vibrantgujarat.com

www.vibrantgoa.com

www.vibranttamilnadu.com

6. Global Tender business between Canada and India

Government of Canada and Government of India buy a lot of goods and services on Global tender basis. Both Canadian & Indian companies do not have complete access to these opportunities. An online Tender portal should be promoted by ICCC in partnership with Government of Canada and India and all Global tenders of both countries should be posted there. This will increase trade between Canada and India.

7. Indo Canada Joint Venture Centre

There are many opportunities for joint venture opportunities between Canadian and Indian companies in India and Canada. This centre, one in Canada and one in India should extend match making facilities to Canadian and Indian companies. Through a portal, such requests can be registered and match making and handholding done.

8. Investment always follows trade.

Focus on trade first. Every province of Canada should lead a trade delegation to India once in a year. Do not go just to the Metros in India, go to Tier two cities, most growth is happening there. Top 10 states of India, should lead a trade delegation to Canada every year. Every year one Federal government led delegation should go to India & Canada.

9. Trade & investment helpline

A dedicated 24 hour phone helpline should be established for both Canadian and Indian to ask any questions related to trade and investment. The people handling the helpline can be trained and they can in turn pass on the queries to relevant companies or government department or to any relevant stakeholders.

10. More business travel to each other countries by small and medium companies on both sides

If any or some or all of this is implemented, trade between Canada and India will double to two years. The key is to focus on small and medium enterprises on both sides, Private Public Partnership approaches, and to establish institutional framework for such initiatives for long term.

INDIA – LAND OF OPPORTUNITIES

Canada and India have enjoyed enduring bilateral relations founded upon shared traditions of democracy and diversity. Canada is home to over 1.2 million Persons of Indian Origin (PIO) who comprise more than 3% of its population. The highly educated, affluent and industrious PIOs, one of the largest immigrant groups in Canada are well integrated with the mainstream and also active politically. Their presence have infused the traditions and culture of India into the social fabric of Canada. This has considerably aroused the interest of the Canadians in India's culture and Cuisine. This has opened up immense trade opportunities in agricultural and food sector between the two countries.

In terms of agriculture and skilled personnel, India is a formidable presence in the world. The country has the largest arable land in the world and is the world's largest producer of milk, pulses and jute, and ranks as the second largest producer of rice, wheat, sugarcane, groundnut, vegetables, fruit and cotton. It is also one of the leading producers of spices, fish, poultry, livestock and plantation crops. Worth $ 2.1 trillion, India is the world's third largest economy after the US and China. India is the world's sixth-largest economy by nominal GDP and the third-largest by purchasing power parity (PPP).

Canada is also a giant in agriculture production. It is the 5th largest agricultural exporter in the world. Canada produces about 75% of the world's maple syrup and is the world's largest exporter and one of the largest producers of flaxseed, canola, pulses, oats and durum wheat. Canada exports $56 billion a year in agriculture and agri-food products and approximately half of everything that is produced is exported as either primary commodities or processed food and beverage products. Canada is recognized as having one of the strongest food safety systems in the world.

India and Canada are close trade partners too in agriculture. Our production portfolios don't intersect and hence that leaves immense scope for mutual trade and cooperation in agriculture. In the year 2015-16, India's total exports of agricultural and allied commodities to Canada were to the tune of US $ 325.54 million. India's principal exports during this period were shrimps & prawns, rice, soya beans, guar gums, food preparations, cucumbers, sesame seeds, etc. During the same period the agricultural and allied imports from Canada were of the order of US $ 1425.91 million. India's principal imports were lentils, peas, chickpeas, oil-cake etc.

However, India accounts for only 1.95% of Canada's global trade. India has growing production possibilities, and trade between India and Canada is expected to double to USD 10 billion in the next three years. India's presence as an exporter to Canada is low mainly due to high tariffs imposed on India, Freight and other Export/

Import Costs and Free Trade Agreements of Canada with neighbouring countries like USA and Mexico.

Overall the tariff rates are minimum for those products which Canada does not produce sufficiently and imports in good quantity from abroad. However, there is quite difference between the tariff rate that Canada charges on India and on Mexico and USA, with whom it has FTA. For instance, tariff rate on India is 26.50% and on USA it is 0% for Bovine meat. Similarly, tariff rate on India is 6.06% and for other countries it is 0% for Onions and shallots. India can trade some products such as refined cane or beet sugar, Cashew nuts, Groundnuts, Coffee, Onions and shallots, fruits of the genus Capsicum among many others with Canada. Trade facilitation measures like trade agreements and tariff reduction and removal of other trade and non-trade barriers by Canada can further bolster the bilateral trade between India and Canada by increasing India's exports.

Besides trade of agricultural commodities, Canada can also assist India in introducing advanced technologies in the field of agriculture and food production. Cold chain management, animal husbandry, dryland farming, food processing technologies, food safety and agricultural sustainability are areas for bilateral cooperation. Agricultural equipment, machinery, cold storage and bulk handling and processing machinery are technologies that India favours and in which Canadian companies can invest in. Training in fields such as herd management, veterinary practices, genetics, breeding, and animal and plant husbandry practices that reduce endemic spoilage are areas where Canada can provide its expertise.

India with a rapidly pacing economy with the advantage of a resourceful younger population is a land of opportunities. Canada can play an important role in exploring Indian market and also associating with India in furthering agricultural technologies.

INDIA-CANADA RELATIONS: COMPLEMENTARITIES

Canada and India are two major democracies with deeply shared values. Very few countries in the world can match Canada's potential to be a partner in India's economic transformation.

India's new economic environment, characterized by open, predictable, stable and easy to do business in, is recognized as one of the most competitive in the world. India provides a strong talent pool in the areas of science, technology and research, as well as among the lowest labour costs in the world. India enjoys cost efficiency in manufacturing of a country. Aadhaar programme was set up by the government principally for two main reasons; one, to give everybody an ID so that they can participate in the modern economy and second, is to see that its numerous welfare schemes which go to individuals are being passed to the genuine beneficiaries. Aadhaar provides online authentication using one's fingerprint or iris, which can be done from anywhere. This can make transactions "presence less". The move to a "cashless" economy will be accelerated by the Aadhaar-enabled biometric smartphones.

Today, nearly 1.23 billion people have been linked with a UID. Smart phones are growing dramatically and are expected to reach a penetration of 700 million by 2020. With the RBI giving licences to over 20 new banks, the competitive intensity of the sector is set to increase. One can visualise a future where every adult Indian has an Aadhaar number, a Smartphone and a bank account.

Finally, as India goes from being a data-poor to a data-rich economy in the next few years, the electronic consent layer of the "India Stack" will enable consumers and businesses to harness the power of their own data to get fast, convenient and affordable credit. Such a use of digital footprints will bring millions of consumers and small businesses (who are in the informal sector) to join the formal economy to avail affordable and reliable credit.

As an insightful report from Credit-Suisse so well explained, there is a $ 600 billion market capitalization opportunity waiting to be created in the next 10 years. This will be shared between existing public and private banks, the new banks and new-age NBFCs. It may even go to non-banking platform players, which use the power of data to fine-tune credit risk and pricing and make money from customer ownership and risk arbitrage.

On the other hand, the healthcare sector & research in India is witnessing a surge of activity and the beginning of what is seen as a rapid phase of growth and with the convergence of Telecom and Healthcare sectors, Health is becoming an extremely important paradigm in India today for finding solutions for the challenges in India which could also benefit the entire world. The Health sector is estimated to be US$ 150 billion strong and expanding. India is experiencing 22-25% growth in medical tourism and the industry is expected to triple its size from US$ 3 billion and is projected to grow at a CAGR of 200%, hitting $9 billion by 2020.

The education & training industry in India is estimated at US$ 100 billion and is expected to nearly double to US$ 180 billion by 2020. With 789 universities, India has the world's largest higher education system in the world & it ranks 2nd in terms of student enrolment in higher education.

Complementarities that will drive the future of India-Canada Relations

Today, India is the largest democracy with about 900 million registered voters compared to 28.5 million in Canada and it is the only country in the world that uses electronic ballot. India's needs and Canada's capacities complement each other. India and Canada also have huge complementarities in Information Technology, Energy and Infrastructure; Manufacturing & Technology; Higher Education; Smart Cities & Urban Planning; Agriculture and Agro processing; Skill development; Banking; Entrepreneurship (Startups); and Research.

India has a huge demand for hydrocarbons and steel-grade coal and Canada has an abundance of both. India is a big consumer of pulses and Canada has been growing to meet part of India's needs. Canadian pulp and newsprint as well as potash find their way to India. Canada is a big market for the kind of goods that India manufactures for the export market - from apparel and fabric to carpets, leather articles, Gems & jewellery and pharmaceuticals. While there are well-regarded Indian companies in Canada and well-regarded Canadian companies in India along with some co-operation in the area of high technology - from nuclear energy to avionics to solar cells - these are still only the beginnings. India offers a host of opportunities for Canada's matured pension funds and investment companies.

In conclusion, it is an economic partnership of immense mutual benefit. It is a strategic partnership that can help address many of our shared global challenges. And, it is a relationship nurtured by the emotional bonds of a vibrant Indian community in Canada of 1.6 million.

ETHICS BY DESIGN: CANADA ADOPTS AI ETHICS AND DATA PROTECTION DECLARATION

Canada has added its voice to the global chorus of data protection and privacy commissioners calling for fairness, transparency and privacy by design as “core values” in the development of artificial intelligence by co-sponsoring the Declaration on Ethics and Data Protection in Artificial Intelligence.

The declaration was adopted by the 40th International Conference of Data Protection and Privacy Commissioners on October 23.

The declaration, co-written by data protection and privacy commissioners from France, the European Union and Italy, was signed by the Office of the Federal Privacy Commissioner and its provincial counterpart from Quebec in addition to 12 other regulators from Argentina, Hong Kong, Mexico and the Philippines.

While lauding the significant benefits that AI systems could offer for users and society in general, the preamble to the declaration acknowledged that some data sets used to train machine learning-based and artificial intelligence systems have been found to contain inherent bias resulting in decisions that can unfairly discriminate against certain individuals or groups.

The preamble also noted that the decisions of AI systems decisions that cannot be explained also raise fundamental questions of accountability, not only for privacy and data protection law but also for liability in the event of errors and harm to individuals. Given ongoing concerns about the possible malicious use of AI and related risks to privacy and data protection, the IDPPC felt it necessary to urge the adoption of international standards and created the declaration to endorse some key “guiding principles” as its core values to preserve human rights in the development of AI. These six guiding principles include the following.

Fairness

Lisa R. Lifshitz

Sonu Dhanju-Dhillon

All AI and machine-learning technologies should be designed, developed and used in accordance with the fairness principle – consistent with their original purpose and any data collected for use with such AI systems used in a way that is not incompatible with the original purpose of their collection.

AI systems should also be developed in a way that facilitates human development, rather than obstructing or endangering it and, if required, boundaries on certain uses may be required. Continued attention and vigilance

There must be accountability for the potential effects and consequences of AI systems. Such accountability includes relevant stakeholders to individuals, supervisory authorities and other third parties as appropriate as well as the use of audits, continuous monitoring and impact assessments. The declaration stressed the need to invest in awareness raising, education and research on AI in order to better understand AI and its potential impacts on society and “demonstrable governance processes” for relevant actors, including trusted third parties and independent ethics committees.

AI systems transparency and intelligibility

The declaration called for improvements on AI systems’ transparency through a variety of means, including investing in public and private scientific research on “explainable” artificial intelligence, making organizational practices more transparent (by promoting algorithmic transparency and the auditability of systems and the provision of meaningful information) and ensuring that individuals are always informed appropriately when they are interacting directly with an AI system or when they are providing personal information to be processed by such systems (informational self-determination).

Ethics by design

The declaration stressed that AI systems have to be designed and developed responsibly from the very start, applying the principles of privacy by default or privacy by design. Practically, this includes implementing adequate technical and organizational measures and procedures (proportionate to the type of system being designed or implemented) to ensure that data subjects’ privacy and personal information are respected. Also, developers should be assessing and documenting the expected or potential impact on individuals and society at large both at the beginning of any AI project and during the project’s entire life-cycle and identifying specific requirements for fair and ethical use of such systems.

Empowerment of individuals

While the use of AI is to be encouraged, it should not occur at the expense of human rights or the rights of individuals. This includes respecting data protection or privacy rights – including rights to access, the right to object to processing and the right to erasure – and guaranteeing an individual’s right not to be subject to a decision based solely on automated processing if the decision significantly impacts them. Regardless, individuals should always have the right to object or appeal and challenge decisions generated through the use of AI systems.

Unlawful biases or discrimination

The declaration expressly acknowledges concerns relating to unlawful bias or discrimination that may occur from the use of data in AI and such unintended results must be reduced and mitigated. Accordingly, developers should invest in research into technical ways to identify, address and mitigate bias, taking reasonable steps to ensure that the personal data or information used in automated decision-making is accurate, up to date and as complete as possible and providing specific guidance and principles in address bias and discrimination, promoting the awareness of individuals and stakeholders.

Recognizing that the declaration’s guiding principles are necessarily pitched at a high level, the ICDPPC also called for the creation of common governance principles on AI to be established on an international basis – given the fact that the development of AI is cross-border activity that will impact everyone.

As part of the declaration, the ICDPPC, therefore, also established a permanent working group – the working group on ethics and data protection in AI – that is now tasked with creating additional guidance to accompany the principles articulated in the declaration.

The group intends to work with all relevant parties involved in the development of AI systems, including governments and public authorities, standardization bodies, AI systems designers, providers, researchers, companies and end users of such systems and will periodically report back to the ICDPPC on its activities.

While there is no doubt that the principles of the declaration are couched in lofty language, they represent a reaction to some very real concerns of individuals that in the rush to seize and capitalize upon the benefits afforded by the use of AI systems – including the ability to process large amounts of data, improving efficiencies and the development of deep-learning technologies – the ethical and human rights must not and cannot be left behind.

Given the landmark work conducted on ethics and AI in this country, spearheaded in Quebec (and further discussed in a prior column) Canada remains well positioned to continue to keep the issues of ethics and data protection at the forefront of AI development.
